Vehicle Talk:

There is not a more complete or handsome stock of vehicles of every description in Kentucky than we are offering for your inspection now. It comprises everything, in the most liberal sense of the word.
We wish to call special attention to our stock of DEPOT WAGONS, OPEN WAGONS and STANHOPE. It will pay you to call and inspect them.

Rubber Tires:

In this advanced age no vehicle is complete without RUBBER TIRES. We have the latest improved machines for putting on the Hartford and Goodyear 2-Wire tire. No more coming off. Riding will be made a comfort to you and your vehicle will last twice as long.
Come in and investigate.

Farm Wagons:

All the best makes, such as STUDEBAKER, MITCHELL, OWENSBORO and OLDS.

Farm Implements:

This department is well stocked. You can find everything that the farmer needs in this line. Vulcan Plows, Deering Harvesters, Etc. And we want to call your special attention to the Tornado Disc Harrow; there is no better harrow on the market.

Field Seeds:

You need look no further for anything you need in the seed line. Just tell us what you want and we have it. We have also Seed Sowers of every make.

CAN YOU GUESS.

Here's a Chance to Make Ten Dollars Easy.

All You Have to Do Is Pick the Winners in the Coming Primary.

Just for the interest attached to a guessing contest and to put a little more interest into the coming campaign for County officers, THE NEWS will give its readers a chance to make ten dollars and have a little fun at guessing on the side.
To the person making the first nearest correct guess of the winners in the Democratic Primary Election which will be held in this county on Saturday, June 1st, 1901, THE NEWS will present a ten dollar gold piece. The conditions of the contest are simple. Old subscribers and new subscribers who pay $2 on their subscriptions will each be entitled to a guess, and to as many guesses as they pay for a subscription. If no one guesses correctly, the first one who guesses the closest to all the winners will receive the ten dollars.

You intend to pay your subscription anyway, and you may as well pay before the first day of June and have a chance of getting your money back, besides gaining the distinction of knowing more about the political situation than your neighbors.

Each guess will be registered when received as to the exact day, hour and minute. No one will be permitted to see how any one else has guessed. In guessing only the offices on the ballot are to be considered.

New Departure.

We take this opportunity to congratulate late ourselves and our readers upon the consummation of an arrangement whereby Herman Myer, the world's best known expert on pearls, has written and copyrighted for THE NEWS a series of articles on pearls and pearl-search. These articles are accompanied by specially good illustrations, made to show what shell should be sought for, how they should be opened, and what shapes and kinds of pearls are valuable and what the value.

Herman Myer stands at the head of pearl men in the world, and is better known as "The Pearl King," than by his usual name. He is still young, but has spent sixteen years of his life in the laborious loves, of inducing men to gather the wealth in pearls in their nearby streams. It is said by Van Simmonds, the author of "Fresh Water Pearls," that Myer has done more to further the interest of the pearl industry in America than all other men together. In fact, whenever money, time or brains are needed the "Pearl King" was found giving them. The Washington Star of May 5th, last, says that over $500,000 worth of pearls are yearly gathered in the United States, and that when bills were introduced in both Houses of Congress this past Spring to stop all pearl fishing that Herman Myer, the Promoter of Interior Pearl Fisheries of America, better known as the "Pearl King," was found to be on hand, and gave his time and experiences to fighting these bills. He worked single-handed and alone, put forth enormous efforts, and by bringing facts plainly before Congress he succeeded in killing the bill.
The pearl fishermen in old established pearl fisheries are ever in his praise, and more than ever they feel they can depend on their "Pearl King."

Mr. Myer has already examined our shells, and some had pearls sent him from Bourbon County, and reports the indication as the very best for fine pearls to be obtained in large quantities.

We believe our readers will give special credit for securing these articles if it is seen that "St. Nicholas," the ghost class magazine of its kind in the world, has hastened to secure a similar shorter article by Mr. Myer for its September number. As pearl work is done without capital and without experience, and even at odd times, it is seen that its earnings, which average three times that of other forms of labor and just that much found money. The money should average $25,000 per year for our country, and is money brought from the very wealthiest city people our country to remain and be spent here.
We are sure our people will encourage the work, and those who can will want to engage in it. We want to request when this work is established that you do not forget that it was first brought to the attention of the public in our column and through our enterprise.

BARRYMORE IN STORY.

Interesting Incidents in the Noted Actor's Career.

HOT FIGHT WITH AN ENGINEER.

How Barrymore Argued With a Western Railroad Man and Had to Dodge Bullets—A Singular Experience in Chicago—His Wit and Personality.

Probably the most exciting incident in the varied career of Maurice Barrymore, the famous actor who recently became suddenly insane, was the attempt upon his life by Jim Curry, noted as one of the most daring scouts in the west and equally noted as a "bad man," says the New York Journal.

After an adventurous career, which included the entire civil war and the Indian war of 1808, Curry drifted down to Texas. He started a restaurant at Marshall, but went broke and secured a position on the Texas and Pacific as engineer. His engine was drawing a train one day on board of which were Barrymore and his company. While the train was stopping at Marshall the actor and engineer became engaged in conversation. Barrymore made a remark which Curry resented. He drew his revolver and fired point blank at Barrymore's head. Barrymore dodged.
The bullet missed him and struck Dick Porter, a member of the company, killing him instantly.

Curry shot again. For a wonder he missed. He was overpowered and placed under arrest. After a long trial, in which he was materially aided by an organization of which he was a charter member and by his record as a brave scout, Curry was acquitted. But the incident took all the bravado out of him. He laid aside the ready revolver which had got him into so many scrapes and lived quietly thereafter until one day he dropped dead in the street in Spokane, where he had gone to live.

Barrymore was unarmed. He used to say that he had too hot a temper to trust himself with a gun. Besides, he had great confidence in his ability to fight his battles with his fists.

"While stories are in order," continued Mr. Barrymore contemplatively, "I will just tell you a rather singular experience I had in Chicago. I have always read Gaboriau's novels with more or less interest, but I have had my doubts regarding the remarkable harvest of his heroes in 'making up' for characters. I never thought it possible that a man could put on a 'make up' that would defy detection in daylight. But I have changed my mind.

"While playing in Chicago some time ago I had occasion to have some photographs taken in costume as Captain Daveport. When the artist had finished with me, I looked at my watch and saw I had only ten minutes to get to the theater. I was a mile away.
Sheridan might have made it on his horse, but I had my doubts. I rushed out of the studio without changing a line on my face and got aboard a grip car. I was in mortal terror lest somebody should discover my disguise.
You know I wear a full beard and a gray wig in 'Alabama.' I tried to 'do the part,' however, and it went. I stopped the car, climbing on with a rheumatic limp, put on a pair of spectacles and proceeded to read a morning paper after giving the other occupants of the car a slow board of trade stare. And from the conductor to the bookblack nobody on the car, which was crowded, discovered my 'make up.' I got down to the theater just in time to go on the stage, and nobody was the wiser for my trip inco. I have more faith in the French detectives' stories than formerly. The public is easier to deceive than I thought."—St. Louis Republic.

While one of the handsomest men of his profession, Maurice Barrymore is one of the most careless as to dress, says the New York Journal. He was always well liked by women, and he had a poet's admiration of the sex.
While rhapsodizing at the Lamb's about the beauty of the new star some one interrupted with:

"But, Barry, the old flames!"
"This is the only flame!" he vowed.
"Those were only matches."

Once a wine agent intruded on a party, of which Barrymore was one, in Chicago. The agent told Barrymore he was a man of good taste, a man of the world and all that and wound up by asking, "When you want a bottle of wine in future, will you not gratify me by asking for my wine?" "Why, of course," answered Barrymore most graciously. "I shall be delighted to ask for your wine. But, heavens, suppose they should have it!"

Some years ago Barrymore was the Orlando—and a fine one—at an open air performance of "As You Like It," given at Stevens' Castle, Hoboken. The performance was for a charitable purpose, tickets were $5 each, the audience was made up of fashionable women.
A frightful thunderstorm cut short the play. The fashionable women scampered into the house for shelter. Barrymore held an umbrella over the Rosalind, who put on a mackintosh.

A few days after Barrymore was listening to a description of rainmaking in Kansas by one who had been there. He heard patiently the different schemes of the rainmakers to induce rain, and then he asked, "Why don't they give an open air performance of 'As You Like It?'" Barrymore excelled in dashing military roles like that of Colonel Par-val West, in "Shenandoah," in which he made one of his greatest hits.

bought a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar and after using two-thirds of it, I

BRITONS ON FUNSTON.

London Military Men Long For One
In South Africa.

The capture of Aguinaldo by General Funston was the absorbing topic of discussion among London military men the other night, says the New York Herald. They called General Aguinaldo "the De Wet of the Philippines" and sighed for a Funston in South Africa. They mingled with their congratulations over what is believed will end the war enthusiastic praise for the strategy which conceived and executed the ruse.

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur H. Lee, who was the British military attaché with the United States army in Cuba during the Spanish-American war, said:

"It takes the intelligence of an American soldier, particularly of the Funstonian order, to turn such a trick. I doubt if there is another army in the world that could produce such a combination of ingenuity and daring. One hardly knows which to admire the more, the imagination which planned the thing or the contempt of danger which attended its execution.

"General Funston's feat is a fitting companion piece to Lieutenant Hobbs's daring deed in sinking the Morrimac at the entrance to Santiago harbor. The Kansan knew that he had forfeited the rights of a prisoner of war and could with all propriety have been shot if his scheme had miscarried.

"We Englishmen know little of the actual military conditions in the Philippines, but we have the impression that General Aguinaldo was the head and front of the insurrection and that the latter will collapse with his capture. What should be done with him will not puzzle the United States government, in my opinion. I do not doubt that he will be deported and treated with all the courtesy due to the leader of a courageous enemy. The island of Guam may yet become famous as the American St. Helena."

TEXAS OIL WELL'S CAPACITY

Test Shows It Is Flowing About Seventy Thousand Barrels a Day.

R. A. Greer of Beaumont, Tex., a member of the Texas legislature, returned to Austin recently from a visit to the new oil district. He said that a test had been made a few days ago of the flow of the great Lucas oil gusher and that the result far exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the owners of the well. The flow was turned into an oil tank which has a capacity of 85,000 barrels. This tank was filled in 12 hours lacking 12 minutes, says the New York Times. At this rate the flow of the well per day of 24 hours is 70,000 barrels.

At the price of 40 cents per barrel the Lucas well will bring to Guffey & Co., the owners, a revenue of $28,000 per day. If the well holds out for one year at the present rate, the revenue which it will bring to its owners will reach the fabulous sum of $10,220,000.
Judge Greer says there are eight wells situated in the immediate vicinity of the Lucas well which will be "brought in" within the next ten days.

HOTEL FOR HORSES.

Seven Story Structure to Be Erected in Boston.

Contrary to expectations, the idea of a seven story hotel for horses in the Back Bay is meeting with considerable favor, and when the matter came up before the board of health of Boston the other day there were no remonstrants. The projectors of the scheme intend to make it as much like an apartment house as possible, with six suit on each floor, five bedrooms or stalls to a suit, pantry, carriage room, room for the help, possibly a janitor, who will object to young horses playing on the stairs, 42 speaking tubes in the front porch, one for each suit, goods delivered at the rear entrance, separate refuse chute for each suite, everything, in fact, that a well regulated family of fashionable equines might desire, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It is explained that the hotel will fill a "long felt want" among persons with four or five horses who do not care to build a separate stable in the city, especially in the Back Bay, where the streets allotted to fashionable stables are pretty well taken up. The estimated cost of the building for which the board of health has granted a permit is $250,000.

Flannel Suits For Summer.
Flannels will be very much worn in the later spring and in the summer.
Stripes, however, will not be fashionable. The adoption of dark blue flannel lounge suits with a striped pattern at the cheapest ready made shops has made them an impossibility in the wardrobe of the man who wishes to be considered well dressed, says the New York Times. Blue serge, always reliable, will come in again for more favor than last year. Much black and dark mixtures of all kinds will be worn. Browns and very light grays will not be as much in vogue as in former years.

New Theory of Malaria.

An Italian medical paper describes the results of an expedition sent out by the government to study the mosquito theory of malaria. They went to one of the most malarious regions in the kingdom; but, as all wore protective masks, only one man out of 104 got malaria, and he, it was discovered, was in the habit of displacing his mask at night in order to smoke.

The Car Puzzled.

It must puzzle the czar, says the Philadelphia Ledger, to know how many of the plots against him are concocted by the nihilists and how many by the police.

Shows that please in style, fit and price, are what the purchaser wants.
